Administration

The President

J. C. McMillan took over his duties as president of the N-I in the summer of 1936, after ten years as head of the junior college at the State School of Science at Wahpeton. Under his direction the N-I was completely reorganized with the emphasis placed on the industrial phase of the work. The past five years have found the school growing steadily in enrollment, service to the state, and prestige.

Student Council

All student activities and the expenditure of student activity funds are supervised at the N-I by the Student Council, organized in 1936 by President McMillan in order to give the student body as large a voice in campus matters as possible. Students select their own representatives, one from each department of the school; the representatives are guided by a constitution adopted by the student body in 1936.

President of the council this year was Lloyd Cox, representative of the Industrial Arts department. James Meachen of the Junior College was vice-president, and Dorothy Heine of the Home Economics department was secretary. Other members were Lillian Holechek, Normal department; Lowell Hamar, Commercial department; Hilda Rath, Industrial High School; and Warren Walsh, Farm Machinery department. President McMillan serves each year as an ex-officio member.

To be eligible for membership on the council, a student must be classified as a sophomore, junior, or senior in college or high school, and must maintain a scholastic average of "B" or better. The council meets once a week, all meetings being open with the right of discussion granted to any member of the student body or faculty.

Besides supervising student activities, the council initiates many of them. Chairmen of all school parties and special events, including Homecoming and the Senior Reception, are appointed by the council. In conjunction with the faculty supervisor of publications, the council also selects the editor of the En Aye and the editor and business manager of the Snitcher.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of the Student Council was the purchase of a motion picture sound projector, which is used to show motion pictures at school assemblies and other programs. The sound projector may be uncoupled and is used extensively to announce football games, track meets, and other school affairs.

The En Aye

The most attractive college newspaper in the state is the boast of the En Aye, student publication issued at the N-I twice a month during the school year. Close attention to headline writing and makeup, as well as news content, gives the paper its pleasing appearance.

Under the direction of Robert T. Schonberger, faculty supervisor of publications, a small but capable staff of students is responsible for the publication of the En Aye. Serving as editor for the first part of the past year was Stuart Mueller, while James Wallace served in that capacity the last part. Others on the staff were Raymond Shelver, sports; Mary Ann McDermott, women's sports; Marjorie Westfall and Edwin Johnson, features. Campus organizations provided their own reporters to prepare club news for the En Aye.

Five issues of the newspaper were published each quarter during the past school year, with a special edition for visiting high school seniors prepared for distribution at the annual high school track meet and senior reception May 3. As the chief advertising medium of the N-I, the paper publicized such school events as Homecoming, the farm and home institute, and the N-I lecture and lyceum series.

Academic and extra-curricular activities receive more space in the En Aye than in any other North Dakota college paper, since the En Aye has more space available. Because the paper accepts no advertising, it carries more news than any other four-page paper in the Northwest.

Four years ago the En Aye sponsored a contest to select four winners of "Leadership Awards for 1938," and has continued the contest every year since. The newspaper appoints a student-faculty committee to select the four outstanding students on a basis of service to the school, activities in school and out, personality, scholarship, responsibility, initiative, and other characteristics that show leadership qualities.

Band

The policy of teacher training for the N-I band has become well established under the direction of E. W. Ackert, now in his thirty-fifth year at the N-I. Realizing that only through actual experience does a band member learn how to organize and maintain a school band, Mr. Ackert has for many years let the students direct the band at all its public appearances. The students chosen select their numbers, rehearse them, and direct them at the concerts.

Despite the loss of seven leaders of the year before, the 1941 band made a successful showing. Among the freshmen two outstanding performers were found: Robert Sheppard of Fullerton, who has abundantly maintained the good name of his family for band work, and Ruth Senn of Page, who has proved herself of invaluable assistance to the director.

Beginners in band work this year were Glenn Daniels, drums; Theodore Hillius, baritone; Benjamin Kosanke, tuba; Oliver Oberlander, alto; John Schmidt, alto; Leland White, baritone; Richard Wilson, tuba; Elmer Whitney, drums; and James Volk, drums. Those with previous band experience were Beatrice Enger, trombone; Folla DuRand, drums; Lowell Hamar, bass; Clinton Hess, trumpet; Norman Kokana, clarinet; Garth Holmes, trombone; Phyllis Judd, clarinet; Walter Kusler, clarinet; Jonathan Oster, trombone; Richard Ratzlaff, saxophone; Willis Pretty Bear, saxophone; Harold Rhodes, trumpet; Arthur Roloff, clarinet; Ruth Senn, trumpet; Dan Slocum, trumpet; Robert Sheppard, clarinet; Scott Walker, clarinet; and Howard Wendland, saxophone.

A large number of students took part in vocal music activities at the N-I, with Gertrude Erbe as director and Jessie H. Dunphy as accompanist. The annual Christmas Vesper service was composed of three parts: "The Story of Christmas," consisting of choruses and solos from Cantatas by Hamblen and Holton; carols of other lands; and choruses from the "Messiah" by Handel.

An assembly program was given in March by the boys' and girls' glee clubs, receiving fine notices from the press and public alike. The glee clubs also entertained at other programs during the year.

The N-I Choristers, a selected group, appeared on the Armistice, Thanksgiving, and Easter programs. They also participated in the Holy Week program conducted by Ellendale churches. The personnel of the Choristers included Bernice Berntson, Inez Cooper, Ruth Enzminger, Lillian Haag, Esther Schmidt, Lois Smith, Robert Blatchford, Theodore Hillius, Edwin Johnson, Oliver Ketterling, John Schmidt, Robert Sheppard, and Ralph Vix.

The Industrial Arts Club is an organization of Industrial Arts students and others who might be interested in the field. The club's aim is to promote unity of purpose among students of Industrial Education.

Talks by persons engaged in industrial pursuits and Industrial Arts teachers are sponsored by the club to give its members a more intimate knowledge of the problems that must be faced in life, both in school and out. Motion pictures of an industrial nature are sponsored by the club to bring industry and industrial processes closer to the members. Hobbies are discussed and encouraged among the members, and the value of leisure time activity and avocations are features of the discussions.

The club also does its share in school activities. Its float is usually among the prize winners in the Homecoming parade. The club's assembly program in the spring quarter consists of demonstrations and displays of projects, and talks by club members. The crowning event of the year is the club banquet, given at Commencement time to honor the graduating seniors. Speeches by the seniors, faculty advisers and President McMillan highlight the affair.

The Normalian Junta, organized in 1934, is one of the newest organizations on the campus. To unite all normal students in one body for social and professional purposes is the aim of the organization. The club's work during the year consists of educational activities interspersed with social gatherings of various kinds.

Major projects of the past school year were the "mixer" party in the fall, the building of the first prize winning float for the Homecoming parade, the patriotic assembly program portraying the importance of each day in the month of February, a party in April and the annual club picnic in May.

The theme of the Homecoming float was "Education Shields Democracy." "Democracy" stood on a high stand holding the flag of the United States, with "Peace" and "Equality" beside her. Behind and in front were boys and girls dressed in caps and gowns and holding red, white, and blue shields.

The Normalian Junta entry in the N-I Rarities was a group singing "Shortnen Bread" while another group acted it out.

Officers for the club are elected in the spring, to serve the next year. Advisers are O. E. Combellick and Alice McClelland of the Normal department.

The Commercial Club was organized in the fall of 1936 for the purpose of bringing the students in the department closer together so that they might carry out certain benefits to themselves and to their profession.

The membership of the club is made up of all students taking two or more commercial subjects. There are no dues—expenses are met by assessments whenever they are needed. This year a committee consisting of Esther Stern, Frances Walker, and Louise Nokleberg was chosen to decide upon and to plan the kind of programs to be held and when to hold them.

The principal activities of the club this year were the assembly program at which two plays were presented, a joint Christmas party with the Lutheran Students Association, the sponsoring of several motion pictures on shorthand technique, office machinery, and other related topics, and the sponsoring of the "Commercial Crier", the mimeographed quarterly publication of the club. The "Crier" has been one of the major projects of the year, published under the direction of Shirley Moes. The members of the staff are changed each term.

One of the outstanding events sponsored by the club this year was the presentation of Albert Tangora, who gave an interesting assembly demonstration and good advice on typing. The school year is usually ended by a picnic which is always looked forward to by the members as one of the most enjoyable social events of the year.

Originally organized under the name of the Lillian E. Tingle Club, the Home Economics Club has been a growing organization on the campus, including as members only girls who are taking work in domestic science.

The main project of the year is the making of Christmas baskets for the poor families of Ellendale. New and remodeled toys are collected by the girls, and with a few holiday sweets are distributed to the unfortunate children on Christmas Eve.

Serving dinners to various organizations to obtain the practical experience of planning and budgeting is another project carried out by the club.

This year as a special undertaking, the members of the organization knitted woolen squares for cover-ups to be used for British relief.

The spring style show put on as an assembly program closes the year's work.

Learning to live at one's best today as a guarantee of fine living in the future is the aim of Delta Epsilon Phi members. Helping to achieve that aim was the program sponsored by the organization during the year, with the valuable assistance of Dean Mary Helen Harrison, club adviser.

The Hobo picnic was the first social event of the year, to which prospective members were invited. The pledge tea and initiation followed, with eleven new members being added to the society.

The annual barn dance was this year turned into a Sadie Hawkins' Day party. The object was to "get your man" and take him to the dance, with the girls doing all the honors. Girls dressed as "Daisy Mae" and boys as "Li'l Abner" to complete the picture.

General topics on art, music and literature were discussed at meetings during the year. The annual banquet and alumni reunion to which all Deltas, past and present, are invited, is held in the spring during Commencement week and is the climax of the entire year's activities.

Bottom row: Marie Speidel, Inez Cooper, Verna Vossler, Alma Hartman, Alice Rath, Isabel Barta, Dorothy Staudinger, Hilda Rath, Clara T. Ingvalson.

Alphian, the oldest co-ed organization on the campus, was established in 1906 as a literary society. As such it did outstanding work. Recently its functions have been expanded to include social as well as literary training.

As a part of its social program, Alphian gives annually an informal rush party, three formal teas, a buffet supper, a costume co-ed dance, a theater party, and, as a climax to the year's activities, a banquet and alumnae reunion at Commencement time. "Democracy," the theme selected for the 1941 banquet, was featured in program as well as in decorations.

Literary training is not neglected. During the past year three programs were given over to the discussion of current events, of problems of etiquette, and of parliamentary law. Short talks given at teas, parties, and banquets were valuable speech training. One-act plays and dramatic stunt programs were enjoyed.

The Alphian assembly program with its one-act play and its dramatization of songs received favorable comment from the audience. The club entry in the N-I Rarities tied for first place in the group contest.

Officers are changed each term. During the fall term the officers were: Alice Rath, president; Alma Hartman, vice-president; Marie Maier, corresponding secretary; Lavina Smith, recording secretary; Inez Cooper, treasurer; Verna Vossler, publicity chairman; Hilda Rath, poster chairman; and Dorothy Staudinger, sergeant-at-arms. Winter quarter officers were: Alice Rath, president; Helen Calhoun, vice-president; Marie Speidel, corresponding secretary; Marie Maier, recording secretary; Inez Cooper, treasurer; Alma Hartman, publicity chairman; Hilda Rath, poster chairman; and Dorothy Staudinger, sergeant-at-arms. Spring term officers were: Donna Krekow, president; Bettye Johnson, vice-president; Esther Stern, corresponding secretary; Phyllis Judd, recording secretary; Inez Cooper, treasurer; Dorothy Staudinger, publicity chairman; Lillian Haag, poster chairman; and Lorraine Roloff, sergeant-at-arms.

In the fall of 1939 the Resident Training Project was started on the N-I campus, and was continued and enlarged in 1940. Its dual purpose is to give selected students from all over the state an opportunity to go to institutions of higher learning, earning their expenses by part-time campus work, and to build and maintain permanent educational features on the campus.

During the first year, the group collected relics of early days in North Dakota and specimens of nature peculiar to the state. Every relic and specimen was labelled, catalogued and placed in cabinets constructed by the project workers.

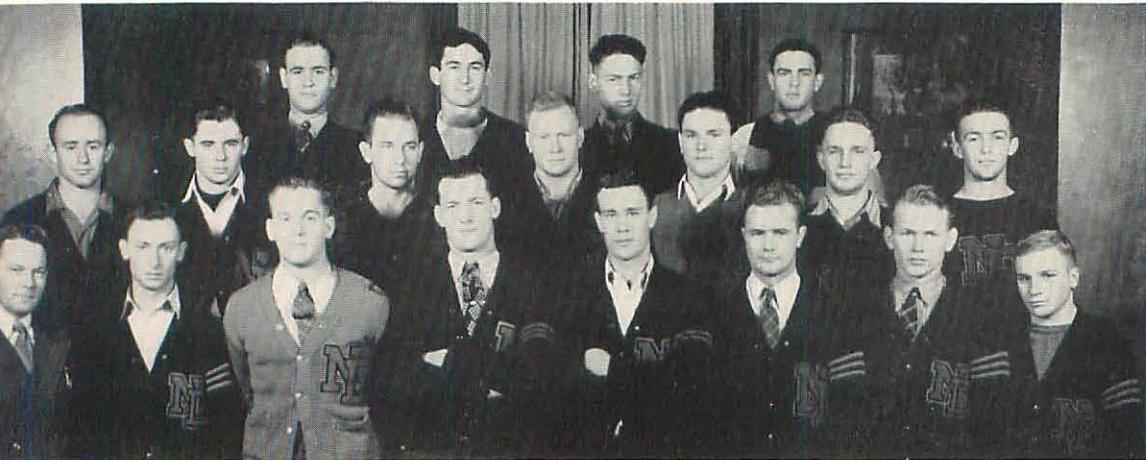

This year, work has been continued on the museum, and more cabinets have been built. A landscape map has been drawn by the boys so that they can plant trees and shrubs on the campus. Another permanent feature is the construction of concrete tennis courts. Trailers and other equipment have been constructed for use on NYA projects.

Most project girls are doing secretarial work on the campus and in the Dickey County court house, which gives them practical training in the courses they pursue at the N-I. The group is under the direction of President McMillan and Watt Myer, area supervisor. The group furnishes most of the incidental labor needed in conducting school activities.

By the margin of a single touchdown the 1940 Dusties missed an undisputed claim to the conference championship, landing in fourth place instead. Had the N-I gridders made good just one of their many scoring chances in their opening battle with Dickinson, they would be boasting gold football watch charms now.

After their opening loss to the Savages, the Dusties sailed through the rest of their schedule without a defeat, although two ties marred their record. A deadlock with the powerful Jamestown Jimmies was followed by an easy victory over the Bottineau Foresters. Climaxing the Homecoming festivities, the Dusties disposed of the Wahpeton Wildcats in their best game of the season. In the last game of the year, the Dusties were surprised by the Valley City Vikings and held to a 12-12 tie.

Basketball 1940-41

Five wins in eighteen games was the record compiled by the Dustie basketball team, but the record doesn't do justice to the caliber of the squad. Highlighting the campaign was a five-point victory over Jamestown College, defending conference champions, who were knocked out of a second pennant by the N-I triumph. Other Dustie victories came at the expense of Wahpeton Science, Valley City Teachers, Bottineau Forestry and the Hecla Independents.

Bob Anderson led N-I scorers with 140 points for the season, followed closely by Art Reddig with 132. Cliff Tresemer scored 94 points for third place. Besides leading the scorers, Anderson shared defensive honors with George Rempfer, generally recognized as the best defensive guard in the loop. Andy was out-scored by opposing centers only twice during the season.

Brightening future cage prospects for the Dusties was the rapid improvement of a fine group of freshmen, including Major Eagle Bear, Henry McClaflin, Earl Johnson, Bob Henry and Darrel Hancock. Eagle Bear was a regular all season, while McClaflin had taken a regular guard berth away from the veterans at the close of the season.

The Dusties will miss the services of Art Reddig and Jimmy Volk in future campaigns, but face the 1942 season with the largest group of lettermen Coach Senn Slemmons has ever had.

The most successful track season in the history of the N-I was brought to a glorious climax when the Dusties captured their first championship in that sport at the conference meet in Wahpeton. Seven members of Coach Senn Slemmons' squad pooled their efforts to amass 37 points in winning the title. Owen Sizer was high point man with first in the high hurdles, second in the low hurdles, and third in the broad jump. George Rempfer placed first in the low hurdles and second in the highs. Art Reddig captured the javelin, Harry Vix took the 440 yard dash, Calvin Rempfer tied for first in the pole vault, and Glenn Daniels placed third in the mile run. The mile relay team of George Rempfer, Floyd Welander, Art Reddig, and Harry Vix won second place.

The Dusties acquitted themselves well in other meets, also, winning the Dakota Pentangular with 60 and one-third points, placing second in the State Intercollegiate meet, and winning various triangular and dual meets during the season.

Women's Athletics

Tumbling Team

Interpretive Dancing

Organized four years ago by Miss Murl Fodness, the Women's Athletic Association has grown steadily in membership and prominence on the campus. The association sponsors four major sports and about ten minor ones. Outstanding activities during the year include a freshman welcome party in the fall, a mixed intramural volleyball tournament, a Play Day for high schools in the spring, and the association's annual Gym Nite, at which the year's work is reviewed. The girls' tumbling team has become one of the outstanding campus groups.

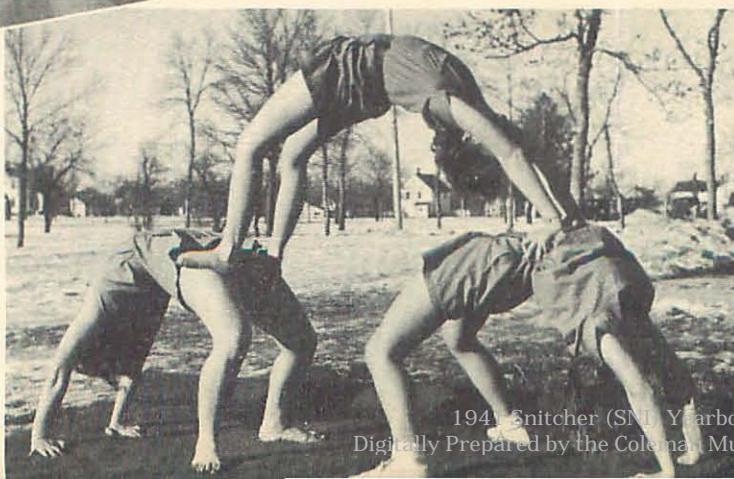

Officers of the W. A. A. are Margaret Smith, president; Mary Ann McDermott, vice-president; and Lillian Holechek, secretary-treasurer. Board members are Mary Ann McDermott, touchball; Lillian Holechek, volleyball; Ruth Enzminger, basketball; Margaret Smith, tumbling; Lily Schmitt, kittenball; Lillian Hillius, badminton; Beatrice Ista, skating; Hilda Rath, hiking; Phyllis Thrasher, track; and Louise Oase, tennis.

Lynita Simek was named most athletic co-ed in 1940, with Genevieve Orth winning high point senior honors. Sweaters were awarded Lynita Simek, Thelma Bolstad, Lois Hanna and Genevieve Orth, while ND letters were won by Margaret Smith, Lillian Holechek, Mary Ann McDermott, Ruth Enzminger, Ella Kuch, Phyllis Thrasher and Stella Turner.

The Year In Review

With a total of 350 men, women, and children registered at the beginning of the fall term, the N-I settled into the swing of work and play which has made up this school year. New students were given a week to reach the status of adulthood, through Freshman Week, during which lectures, parties, and a variety of tests held the upper hand. Extra-curricular activity began with the football season, as the Homecoming committees, headed by Howard Rumrey, dug into their tasks. That they were successful is a matter of record. Lloyd Cox and Stu Mueller, editors respectively of the Snitcher and the En Aye, named their personnel and disappeared into heaps of copy. The season's first dance brought students and faculty together at the Faculty Reception, with Bill Klitz' orchestra furnishing the rhythm for the pounding of human hooves. Student council posts were allotted and the man of the hour, Lloyd Cox, became president of that august body. Following on the heels of this notable election came the appointment of cheer leaders, Marge Westfall, Ardys Merrick, and "Pete" DuRand. Faces of extraordinary length were seen about the campus as the cream of the college men registered for the draft. The Dusties clawed the terrain with cleats and Homecoming plans went merrily on—and THEN

Came Homecoming. With Queen Eleanor Gessner reigning, the proceedings were a success as the Dusties threw mud in the eyes of the Wahpeton Wildcats and crowned the festivities with a decisive triumph. Came next the inevitable let-down, which was finally broken by the pledging of Alphian and Delta societies. The Dusties stripped for the basketball wars and prepared a new crop of freshmen. Entertainment was arranged by the seven Lyceum numbers, preparations for the Christmas Party were set in motion, Snitcher pictures were snapped—and THEN Came exams. Weeping and gnashing of teeth prevailed, but then came the N-I Cantata to break the gloom, along with the opening of the cage season. At last! The Christmas Party, with Klitz on the stand again, and THEN—ah, bliss and heavenly rapture—VACATION!

The old grind started again, but smiles wreathed the faces of 67 honor roll collegians. Sadie Hawkins snatched her victim for the Delta Hop and Cupid paved the way for the Valentine Party. The Dusties slugged and shot, but the boxers and cagers couldn't quite make the grade. The Men of Song and Scott-Morrison appeased the musical appetites at the N-I as our stalwart heroes of the court battled on. "Best in school history" designated the annual Farm and Home Institute. Donna Krekow grew gray hairs over the Game Party, while the Bismarck Phantoms demonstrated how basketball is played in the best circles. Lecturers presented the foreign situation, Snitcher staff members toiled with stuff like this, and the Dusties topped the cage season by knocking the Jamestown Jimmies out of the conference championship. Rare indeed were the Rarities, with local talent cropping up in large chunks. The judges finally choked on a "Hot Potato" and awarded the grand prize to the boys behind the ocarinas. Stung to the quick, but winners in the "end," the new letter winners took the Lettermen's initiation standing up. Weatherman Demmer took pity on the track men as spikes replaced basketball shoes.

AND THEN EXAMS AGAIN!

Haughty high school seniors mingled with the N-I stoogents to the music of Don Victor and his orchestra, after a day of track meet and open house. At long last the pride and joy of our Alma Mater began preparations to leave us via graduation, some to teaching posts, some to the Army Air Corps, and others—well, that depends on Uncle Sam.

To the school year of '40 and '41, HAIL AND FAREWELL!

—Stuart Mueller
